WOMAN'S DAY FOR THE LIBERTY
LOAN A GREAT SUCCESS. MRS.
McCAN INTERESTS MANY

The fine audience which gathered at the High School auditorium Saturday evening to celebrate Woman's Day in the Liberty Loan campaign and to hear the message brought by Mrs. Martha Noble McCann of war work across the sea, was in no respect disappointed. It was a representative audience, men and women being present in about equal numbers.

As a preliminary to the lecture, there was community singing led by Mrs. A. A. Barton with Mrs. L. N. Hagood at the piano, the audience uniting wholeheartedly in singing "America," "Over There" and "Buy a Bond," and again at the close of the program in "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Woman's Day

The speaker was introduced by the presiding officer, Mrs. Charles Toll, chairman of the local Woman's Liberty Loan Committee, who explained that the meeting had been called in response to the expressed wishes of the President, who had named October 3d as Woman's Day. Said she:

"We are so proud and so happy that we are helping our government even in a small way to achieve what it is striving for."

"To women is it given to bear their young in dolor and distress; to women is it given to guide the feet of the tiny little one, the uncertain first steps of the child and later on in her capacity as mother or as teacher it is given in large measure to guide the steps of the children in the ways of righteousness and truth. To many women throughout our broad land has it been given to bid their sons Godspeed with smiles upon their lips and little of sadness in their eyes as they started upon their mission. To women has it been given to keep the home fires burning, to send messages of cheer to the boys across the sea. To women has it been given to labor in munitions factories, in the factories where the uniforms our boys wear are made, and in those other factories where the masks are made which protect them from the danger."

NEWS FROM MRS. GREENWALT

The Evening News is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Opal Greenwalt, a former resident of Glendale, who was prominent in club and P-T. A. circles. She writes:

"I appreciate the Glendale paper beyond measure. It comes every Monday morning at 9:30. I am busy as usual attending lectures at Stanford, spending Saturdays in Red Cross work. This afternoon I am to spend in studying the works of Art in Stanford Museum."

"My son Ronald, who was graduated from the Glendale High School last year, is a regular student at Stanford University. We feel very kindly toward the Glendale High School, because of the fact that hundreds of applicants who wish to enter the University here fail to be admitted."

TAKE EASTERN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Sibley of Maple avenue left Saturday for an extended tour of the East. They will make their first stop in Kansas City and from there go to St. Louis. They will visit relatives in Terre Haute, Indianapolis, and other points in Indiana and Illinois. They will spend some time in Chicago, Louisville, Kentucky, New York, Albany and Buffalo. They will visit Niagara Falls and will return by way of Canada.

Mrs. S. C. Martin of Portland, a sister of Mrs. Sibley, is here and will remain in charge of their home while they are absent.

GLENDALE GARDEN SOCIETY

Members of the Glendale Garden Society, which met Thursday evening, October 3d, at the home of Mrs. Nanno Woods on Milford street, decided to cease regular meetings for the present but to remain subject to the call of the president.

The disposition of funds in the Society's treasury was discussed, the members deciding they wished to divide them between the Glendale Red Cross Chapter and Belgian Relief Work. Inasmuch as the County Council of Defense has made some suggestions repeated by members relative to the avoiding of soliciting funds or making donations to the various war activities, until the combined drive is on, action was postponed until better information can be had. The Society has $50 which it desires to give to the Red Cross, and about $40 for Belgian Relief. So says the president, Mrs. Woods.

MESSAGE FROM HOOVER

COMMISSIONER TINCHER, LONG BEACH, BRINGS IT DIRECT FROM WASHINGTON

At the mass meeting Saturday evening, Mrs. Toll made the announcement that a message from Hoover giving his latest instructions in regard to food conservation will be brought to Glendale by one of his lieutenants, Federal Food Commissioner Tinchin of Long Beach, who went to Washington to receive his dictation direct, and who is bringing it to the cities of Southern California. Mr. Tinchin will be in Glendale Tuesday and will meet the citizens at 4 o'clock at Union High School. In the present situations, with thousands upon thousands of prisoners to be cared for, repatriated civilian populations to be fed, and an increased army to be sustained, food looms big as a factor in the winning of the war. Mr. Tinchin is said to be a very fine speaker and every citizen is urged to attend.

That the recent stirring victories on all fronts may lead to over-confidence and a relaxation of effort, is feared in many quarters, where it is realized that any slacking now may undo much of what has been accomplished. Thus it has been observed that there is a widespread tendency to let down on food saving, the result probably of the changed bread rules.

To counteract this possibly dangerous tendency and to drive home the fact that even if the war ended today, we would have to send abroad half again as much food next year as we did last, speakers are being sent over the whole state by Mr. Ralph P. Merritt, Federal Food Commissioner for California.

During the past two weeks these representatives of Mr. Merritt visited about ninety cities in the northern part of the state. They are now coming to Southern California for the same purpose. They expect to inform the public of the conditions that now exist and to explain the new food conservation program, including the price-interpreting plan.

THE REGISTRANTS' DRILL

Chairman Theodore Peirce of the Publicity Committee of the Board of Instruction, reports that an attendance which surpassed that of the first meeting was recorded Friday evening at the High School grounds at the drill of registrants of this district. Fully fifty new men were present who were assigned to squads with no noticeable decrease in the roll call of those who were present Tuesday night.

As a matter of convenience to those residing in Burbank, it has been decided hereafter to hold drills two times a week in Burbank, as it will be a considerable convenience to the registrants and also facilitate the movements of those in the Glendale division. Both Mattison B. Jones and Frank C. Muhleman of the Exemption Board were present and expressed great delight at the showing made, in fact, it was the consensus of opinion that there must be wonderful enthusiasm on the part of the men to have mastered as much as they have in the short time they have been drilling.

Mr. Jones expressed disappointment that there were not more of the ladies and families of registrants present, to watch their progress, and again the committee wishes to call attention of families to the fact that they are cordially invited to be present and that there is a large grand stand with ample seating capacity for all who desire to come.

The next drill will take place tomorrow (Tuesday) evening, rain or shine, and it is hoped that every one will be present just a little earlier so there will not be any confusion at the last moment.

FRENCH DAY

A brilliant and patriotic program will mark the opening of the club year of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale tomorrow. At two o'clock a reception of members by the executive board will be held. The names of twenty new members will be presented.

All members are urged to be present.

Opening Song, "Marseillaise," will be sung by the favorite prima donna, Madame Catherine Shank.

Address, "Immortals and Immortelles of France," Mrs. William W. Ramsay, President.

French Songs, Old and New, Madame Catherine Shank.

By Request, "Americans Come," Madame Catherine Shank.

The program will close with a salute to the flag.

PEACE PROPOSALS REACH WASHINGTON

PRESIDENT CANCELS GOLF ENGAGEMENT AND IS LOCKED IN HIS STUDY DRAFTING REPLY TO AUSTRIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, October 7.—The Swedish Minister called upon the State Department at 10:30 this morning and delivered the Austrian peace note to Secretary Lansing. At the same time the Swiss Minister called upon President Wilson and delivered to him the peace plea of Germany forwarded by Prince Maximilian.

The Swedish Minister has an engagement with the President for late this afternoon at which it is understood the peace situation is to be discussed.

The State Department refused official comment on the peace move. A high governmental authority however, indicated that the President's reply to the present proposals will be practically the same as his reply to the recent peace suggestion. Some believed that notice will be given Germany that if Germany is to surrender unconditionally her terms will be considered, but others are of the opinion that no clause of such a nature will be inserted in the reply.

Diplomats pointed out that there has been no basic change in the German government, that the Kaiser and the militarists still hold control and that the Reichstag is merely a debating society.

President Wilson today cancelled his usual morning game of golf and locked himself in his study, writing. It was understood he was drafting a reply to the Austrian proposals.

AUSTRO-HUNGARIANS RETREAT IN DISORDER

ALLIES CAPTURE VRANJE AND ARE ENERGETICALLY PURSUING THE RETREATERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, October 7.—It is officially announced today that the Austro-Hungarians, following the fight with the French and Serbians in central Serbia, are in disorderly retreat northward.

The allies have captured Vranje, a most important base, and are energetically pursuing the retreaters.

Hundreds of prisoners and quantities of guns and munitions have been taken.

In Albania, the allies continued to advance today, the Serbians occupying Dedra, within Serbian territory.

NO FAITH IN GERMANY

FRENCH DOUBT GERMANY'S ACCEPTANCE OF FOURTEEN
POINTS AND SAY THEY CAN'T CONSIDER PEACE OFFER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, October 7.—The French press and people today were agreed that Germany has not fully accepted President Wilson's fourteen points, but is merely accepting them as a basis for negotiations, and France can not consider a German peace offer.

GERMANS FIRE LAON

ARE BURNING VILLAGES FROM RHEIMS TO LILLE IN PREPARATION FOR AN EXTENSIVE RETIREMENT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, October 7.—The Germans today were burning villages from Rheims to Lille, presumably in preparation for an extensive retirement. South of Cambrai it was reported that the Germans already had retreated three miles on a seven-mile front.

A score of towns are burning. Laon was set afire yesterday, Sallaumines, east of Lens, and several villages southeast and west of Lille are burning. Many towns in the Suipe valley were reported afire today.

Northwest of Rheims the French today captured Masnes and penetrated into the city of Hauvine, despite the heaviest resistance. There was violent fighting throughout last night at St. Quentin.

Boh wings of the American forces between the Argonne Marrii and the Meuse continue to advance in heavy fighting.

STUBBORN GERMAN RESISTANCE

CAPTURED DOCUMENTS SHOW GERMANS ARE TO HOLD
KRIEMHILDE LINE AT ALL COSTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY WEST OF VERDUN, October 7.—The Americans today made additional progress in the Aire Valley and the eastern edge of the Argonne forest despite strong resistance. The Germans have reinforced their artillery against the American center and left.

Captured documents show that the enemy intends to hold the Kriemhilde line at all costs. The Germans are resisting stubbornly along the Cunelle-Brieulles road and in the woods and hills on other sections of the line.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER THE ONLY TERMS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MINNEAPOLIS, October 7.—Colonel Roosevelt, addressing a Liberty Loan meeting today, declared that the German peace "is only a part of the German war drive." He said that unconditional surrender should be the only terms to Germany.

A PIVOTAL POINT

CAMERON JOHNSON POINTS TO
JERUSALEM AS A COMING
CENTER OF INFLUENCE

Rev. Cameron Johnson, who will leave Glendale Thursday for a transcontinental tour after a sojourn of nearly two years in Southern California, occupied the pulpit of Rev. Clifford Cole Sunday evening and gave an illustrated, wonderfully interesting lecture which covered the past, present and the future of the little land of Palestine as he sees it. He is a poet and artist as well as preacher and betrayed himself at every turn in his charming portrayal in word and line of the Holy Land. His slides, which are beautifully colored, are his own work, as are the original photographs, and his narrative of personal impressions and experiences is as delicately colored with wit and humor and with a not infrequent touch of satire.

"The Christian religion," he declared, "is the only religion which has a future. Ask the disciple of Buddha when is the golden age of his religion and he will say it was when the Lord Buddha was on earth; ask the follower of Mohammed when is the golden age of his religion and he will refer you to the time when Mohammed was making his mighty conquests with the sword. When you come to the Christian and ask, 'When was the golden age of your religion?' he points to the future and says, 'It is when Jesus comes.'"

"We are the only religious optimists in the world," Mr. Johnson continued, "the only people, religiously speaking, who have a future, and in"

DEATH OF HARRY STARKEY

Earl Starkey of 120 South Belmont has received the sad news of the death of his brother, Harry E. Starkey, who passed away at his home in Champaign, Ill., September 28 after an illness of ten days of pneumonia. Harry Starkey was well known in Glendale as he lived here six years. A year and a half ago he went back to Illinois to live with his father. Just before leaving Glendale he was connected with the Glendale Taxi Service.

He is survived by six brothers, Earl of Glendale, Charles of Burbank, George of San Bernardino, Archie of Pacific Grove, and two brothers and a sister in Illinois.

THE CONRAD BOYS

Mrs. Jesse Joseph has been advised that the class which has been under the instruction of her son, Ensign Fred A. Conrad, at the Point Loma Naval Station, has just had its examination and eighteen out of the twenty men in the class received commissions, which is considered quite a feather in the ensign's cap. In token of their appreciation, they presented him a handsome sterling silver and gold deposit cigar case.

Another son, Leroy Conrad, is in a government hospital at San Francisco recuperating from an accident which he suffered two days before he was to be graduated from the training school upon which he has been in attendance in the Aviation Section. He expects to be able to finish in two or three weeks in spite of his backset.

Mrs. Joseph has some wonderful souvenirs and curios from China and other parts of the world visited by her son, Gunner Gerald Conrad, who has seen eight years of service in the Navy and has recently been stationed in Asiatic waters on the U. S. S. Monocacy. He completed his term of enlistment last June and under the rules of the Navy could re-enlist any time within four months and retain his rank. As he entered the training school at Point Loma under his brother's instruction for the purpose of securing an officer's commission, he did not wish to re-enlist as Chief Gunner, but did enroll for service. It has led to complications which are very discouraging to him as he has been registered for service in the army, which he knows nothing about and where he would have to begin at the bottom, whereas his naval training had enabled him to draw $165 per month. His friends are interesting themselves to secure his transfer to the other branch of the service and to the rank to which he is entitled. It would not be surprising were he retained here to act as naval instructor. If the army still claims him, it is likely to prove a loss to the service as his disappointment will not tend to make him an A-1 soldier.

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, who have been guests at the Glendale Sanitarium, are moving into the house at the corner of Jackson and Wilson avenue formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Hughes.

A PATRIOTIC SERMON

PASTOR J. W. CHRISTIAN SAYS
ALLIES ARE FIGHTING A RIGHTEOUS WAR

That Americans have the greatest government under heaven today, that Christians ought to be the most loyal citizens the United States government has, that they ought to buy Liberty Bonds and support the Red Cross to the limit of their ability, that German attacks upon Red Cross ambulances, field hospitals and base hospitals are a great blot upon the escutcheon of the Kaiser's empire, and that the great war reached its turning point toward victory for the Allies when President Wilson led the world powers in defining the aims of the war, were the striking declarations of Pastor J. W. Christian in his sermon at the Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church, Third and Isabel streets, at the regular service last Saturday morning. Mr. Christian is president of the Pacific Union Conference of the Adventists, and represents all the churches of this denomination in California, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and western Colorado.

President Christian read numerous Bible texts, showing the duty of Christians toward civil authorities. He defined the field of operation of ecclesiastical government and of civil government, saying that each has its proper sphere, and that there is no conflict when there is no overlapping. Explaining this statement, he said:

"It is not the prerogative of civil government to make a man rest upon the seventh day of the week, or upon the first day of the week. The civil government has no right to dictate what hymn book shall be used, or what forms of prayer shall be said. Our government has consistently and very properly held itself aloof from those things which rest between the individual conscience and God, but in civil affairs we are constantly called upon to respond to its claims and demands. To these, all should respond heartily and loyally."

"There is absolutely no occasion for conflict between civil and spiritual government, so long as each keeps its place. But when one overlaps the other, then there is trouble. There is a supreme Voice which speaks to the individual heart in matters of religion. In these matters the civil government has no right to meddle. But when it comes to civil requirements, God's command is, 'Render to Caesar the things which are Caesar's.' I believe we ought to stand there with all our hearts."

"Our honored president, Mr. Wilson, has recognized that same truth. While he urges us throughout the country, in this great struggle of the Allied nations on behalf of humanity, that we should stand by and support."

A STIRRING WAR ADDRESS

The congregation at the First M. E. Church were edified by an able and stirring address Sunday morning. In the absence of the pastor at Conference, Rev. Edward Hoskyn was engaged to supply the pulpit. Learning that Dr. W. F. Pitner, a brother of the former District Superintendent of San Diego District, had moved to Glendale, Mr. Hoskyn prevailed upon him to take his place. Dr. Pitner has a son in France and another preparing to go and is thoroughly informed in all matters pertaining to the war and the necessity of an aggressive and ceaseless warfare until the Kaiser is hurled from his throne. Basing his address upon Moses' charge to the pacifists in the 32nd chapter of Numbers, 6th verse, "Shall your brethren go to war and shall ye sit here?" In a masterful manner he arraigned those who shirk their responsibility in this crisis. The most justifiable war in defense of human liberty that history has ever recorded. We could not remain true to the traditions of our forefathers and stay out of it. Our Pilgrim fathers came here to obtain liberty for themselves. The boys who have gone to the front, those at home who are buying bonds and in other ways backing up the boys, are winning liberty for our entire human family. And nothing short of a complete victory over the German government can bring about this desired end. That this earnest address was thoroughly appreciated, was evidenced by frequent and hearty applause.

GUNNER WILLIAMSON WOUNDED

Word has been received that Earl Williamson, who was on the U. S. S. Huntington as a gunner, has been seriously wounded in the abdomen by a fragment of shell thrown backwards when the shell was released from the gun. His parents, who formerly lived on Louise street in Casa Verdugo, are now residents of the Imperial Valley.

PRODUCE THE KAISER

The Kaiser is wanted and wanted badly by the Allied nations at war. Substitutes will not answer in this case. This "hell-upon-earth" man must be brought forth and made to answer for all the trouble he has caused the civilized world. Until such a time as he does appear and offer himself up as a very insignificant sacrifice for the great crimes he has caused to be committed, Americans will not be satisfied.

The talk of peace on Germany's part is only a waste of time so long as the Kaiser and his supporters are in safe quarters. The German people are beginning to feel the real effects of war since the enemy has reached German soil and is destroying costly and sacred possessions.

America will go on building ships, manufacturing guns and armaments, and preparing men for war. America went into the war to fight it to a complete finish, and the patriotic Yankee boys will not quit until the Kaiser is thoroughly whipped.

TO PURCHASERS OF FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN, AND OTHERS

Reports from precinct heads show that many people have not made their purchase, not being home when the worker called.

These are urged to go to their bank and make their purchase and thus aid in closing the active work this week.

Remember that the workers who have called are volunteers and that their time is just as valuable as yours, and if you will go to your bank and buy, you will save time for both.

If you are not going to buy it is just as important that you see the worker or go to headquarters and see that they have your record.

If you have purchased bonds of other issues, it should be shown. If you have supported the Red Cross, it should be shown.

If you have aided in any substantial way in any of the various activities, either by work, money, or material, your record show it.

If you are UNABLE to buy or get in the game in any other way, don't hesitate to have same noted.

If you ARE well able to buy or work, or furnish material, own an automobile, take joy rides, are regular attendants at the various places of amusement, while the boys are offering their lives at the front, and if you do not make a substantial showing along patriotic lines, the records are going to show it, and the boys are going to know it when they come home. Will your nerve hold out?

The workers are asked to make the necessary notations on cards to complete your records as shown by your visits and turn them through your precinct heads to headquarters.

New cards may be obtained for the record of new comers or in cases where people have been overlooked in other canvases. Be sure to get them when you return your old cards.

A good strong, live "Last Resort Committee" has been appointed and it will be their duty to investigate all doubtful cases, give them an opportunity to correct their delinquency or explain why.

We expect very few such cases, however, but those cases can be assured of very careful, courteous, but positive attention.

You have just a little time to "get in the clear."

DO IT NOW.

F. H. VESPER, Chairman.

FRANGLAIS A NEW TONGUE

"Franglais" is a new language that you hear in France today. The word is made out of Francaise and Anglais, the French words for French and English—and the language itself is made out of a fearful jumble of words that were perfectly good when they played by themselves, but don't always mix.

Franglais is what you hear where Americans and English men and women without a very good knowledge of their hosts' own speech find themselves at work alongside of French men and French women—soldiers, nurses, relief workers, shopkeepers and all sorts of folk.

American Red Cross nurses say that when you gather up several hundred little French babies who have hardly begun to speak any language at all and several hundred little ones who are speaking the universal and universally incomprehensible language of babyhood, the results are one degree harder to stand than grown-up Franglais.

HOW TO MAIL CUT FLOWERS

You have some lovely forget-me-nots in your garden. You would like Mary to have some, but she is so awkwardly far away. Didn't it occur to you that you could mail them satisfactorily, if you only knew how? Here's how.

Separate the large bunch into smaller bunches of perhaps four or five flowers. Now wring out a wad of absorbent cotton in salt water—a teaspoonful to a pint will be sufficient. Break the damp wad into smaller pieces and wrap firmly about the ends of the stems. Finally wrap flower, stems and all, loosely in newspaper, wax paper if you have it. It is a good plan, too, to line the box with the dampened cotton.

FRANCO-AMERICAN FORCES CROSS THE SUIPPE RIVER

PARIS, October 7.—Battle front dispatches at four o'clock this afternoon showed that the Americans and French had crossed the Suippe River on a ten-mile front and were advancing north of Rheims. Although violent fighting continued today around St. Quentin, the Germans were still destroying supplies and burning villages, indicating that their retreat is near.

COUNTY REGISTRATION DIMINISHED 50,000

LOS ANGELES, October 7.—The total registration in Los Angeles county was estimated today by the County Registrar of Voters as 310,000. This is fifty thousand less than the registration of two years ago.

WOMEN SUBSCRIBE $64,400

ous gas fumes. To women has been given to minister tenderly to the wounded and suffering, to close the eyes for the last long sleep; and to women has it been given at the present time to help in raising the sums of money which shall go to help those boys across the water to carry out their high mission.

"This is Woman's Day of the Liberty Loan Campaign, as designated by our government, so it is very fitting we should have tonight with us a woman well known in Southern California and in more than Southern California, Mrs. McCan, who for years has lived in Los Angeles, who has been the president of the Friday Morning Club there and has ever been identified with the movements that mean uplift and progress not only for womankind but for the community in general. Mrs. McCan is the emissary of the government and has seen with her own eyes the tremendous things that are being done over there in reconstruction work."

In greeting her audience, Mrs. McCan said:

"I address you as fellow workers because that is what we all are now and what we must be. There is only one thing before us now and that is the winning of this war, and we are the great army of women which is just as essential in its functions as the work the men are doing at the front, just as necessary. Napoleon said: 'Two-thirds of the strength of an army is the morale at home.' It is more than one army, for there is the army of the Red Cross, the commercial, the industrial and the vocational armies."

"In London soon after the war was declared, when the wounded began coming back in countless numbers, the women of England organized themselves into what they called the V. A. D. (Volunteer Aid Detachments) to go anywhere, any time and do anything for the soldiers. I am going to tell you about their splendid work and about the conditions in London, to tell you about the wonderful reconstructive work done in England."

When They Come Home

"That is the problem before us—reconstruction for the men coming back. Sir Arthur Pearson, President of the Institute for the Blind, who has established the training station at St. Dunstan's for the blinded soldiers, said to me 'Go back and tell them of the work over here, and say to them: 'See that they are not put into institutions and made objects of pity and charity but see that people are so trained as to be able to teach them that they may have vocations which will make them self respecting and self sustaining.'"

"You must also prepare to meet them mentally. They went away with more or less the spirit of adventure. There were bands playing and flags flying, but they are coming back suffering, blinded, maimed, wounded, and you will have to meet them as courageously as they have met their fate. Do not let them think they are afflicted. That, Sir Arthur thinks, is a great handicap and his constant study is to reduce the handicap. The loss of sight is represented as only the loss of a certain valuation and they are taught to increase other values."

"Another thing. You will have to be prepared to meet them spiritually. They are coming back different men than when they left. They have had supreme moments none of us can ever have. They have met death and have also met worse than death, the possibility of being maimed and wounded for life. They have come back after fighting for a principle, not for gain, and are going to be on a different plane; and we shall have to be careful that we are not on a lower plane and that we do not drag them down when they come back. They are coming back men. They have found their souls over there, and we must see that we are on the same plane with them, because if we do not they will not speak our language and will grow apart from us."

"There is going to be questioning when they come back, also. They will say: 'Did you do all you could for us while we were there fighting for you?' I know these things because of the effect my own experience has had upon me. I shall never be the same woman again."

How Germany Might Come

Mrs. McCan then described her voyage across on a transport carrying ten thousand soldiers with a convoy of seven ships, of their retreat into Halifax, where they remained for a week alongside the Tuscania, afterwards sunk by the Germans, and of her own conviction that the Halifax disaster could not have been an accident, that it is a wonderful harbor and it was a perfectly logical thing for Germany to try to destroy it. She described the nineteen-day passage in a zigzag course with all portholes battened down to the exclusion of air that, no ray of light from any cabin might betray the location of the transport, of the amusements and drills with which the lagging hours were beguiled, and referred to the German submarines that are now operating up and down the Atlantic Coast from the northern part of Maine to Cape Hatteras, and the Atlantic Ocean is no longer a protection. "If by any chance," said she, "we could not get men enough and supplies enough across that ocean, and Germany should win, it is no further from Germany to America than it has been from America to Germany."

On reaching London, she found women manning the entire city, doing everything that men had done before the war. In England in the munitions factories and industries, 3,226,000 women are taking the places of men and doing it cheerfully, uncomplainingly.

She described the hundred air raids between June and September by German planes one hundred feet in length coming in companies of thirty across the channel and dropping bombs on the peaceful villages and farm houses for the purpose of terrorizing the British public into acceding to their peace demands, "but," said she, "they do not know us. We are not made of that kind of stuff. (Applause.) We will not be frightened by anything of that kind, and after every such raid, the recruiting went up."

She told how automobiles had been commandeered by the government and how few taxis and buses were to be seen, that the people must use the underground railway or walk; that the English have had no butter for years, only oleomargarine, that all cream is reserved for the children and there is very little sugar. Said she:

"All of the sugar they have over there comes from here and we all know it is one of the energy-giving factors. All of the English people save and conserve so they can send the best they have to their soldiers. They all have to use meat cards, but they are not starving. There are plenty of potatoes and cabbages and Brussels sprouts. And for those of you who complain of our war bread, I wish you might have to eat for one week the English war bread. (Applause.) I never did think the English knew how to make good bread. I wish they could have some of ours."

The V. A. D.'s

"The V. A. D.'s of wealth and titles have given up their beautiful homes and gone to boarding or into apartments. Women who never before served themselves are not only waiting upon themselves but waiting upon the soldiers, releasing their servants for munitions work and doing hard work every day. The British women are wonderful. They work in four-hour shifts at the canteens and there is no glamour about going down and serving liver and bacon and ham and eggs to soldiers who want it badly. It is hard work. There is no glamour either in taking care of munitions workers' children so their mothers can go in peace to their work, no glamour in learning to make munitions so as to relieve munitions workers and give them a holiday."

"There is another side to London after midnight when the trains come in with the wounded from the front and are met at the stations by the ambulances driven by women and by Red Cross nurses, and I say to you the British woman is going to be as kind to your boy as to her own. (Applause.)"

"Sir Arthur Pearson realized the need of a place where men could be taught to live and work and play, though blind. So he established St. Dunstan's. He is blind himself, became blind a year and a half before the war. He knows the psychology of their mentality. When the men realize they may be in darkness the rest of their lives, then is the time Sir Arthur goes to them and, sitting on the edge of their beds, tells them they must not be discouraged, that there is a place where they can be taught to be useful, joyful citizens. Then he sends for them to come to St. Dunstan, where they see or rather hear the happiness of the men. It is the happiest home in London because it is full of sympathy. He inspires them with a wonderful spirit of courage that brings out the best in them and makes them realize it is only a question of values."

"My dream is that some American will rise up to do here for American boys what Sir Arthur is doing."

Mrs. McCan then showed pictures of St. Dunstan's interior and exterior views, showing the men at work and at play, very plainly cheerful and enjoying life, pictures of the varied sorts of work they are taught to do, from orchestral work to poultry raising, their instruction including the learning how to distinguish the kind and quality of fowls by handling them, how to do typewriting, the weaving of mats, agriculture, etc."

At the conclusion of her address, the audience responded with a burst of spontaneous applause which was prolonged for seemingly several minutes, and which demonstrated as no other means could have done their interest in Mrs. McCan's message.

Glendale Women's Subscriptions

In closing the meeting, Mrs. Toll announced what the women of Glendale have done for the Fourth Liberty Loan, that since the drive began last Saturday they have subscribed through the women solicitors and through men solicitors, through the banks and the school children and the Boy Scouts (not counting the professional women who feel in duty bound to subscribe through Los Angeles) $64,400, and in almost every instance those subscriptions have come in $50 amounts, which means many individual subscriptions and much sacrifice in some instances.

CERRITOS P.-T. A.

An excellent meeting of the Cerritos Parent-Teacher Association attended by about forty members and friends, was held Thursday afternoon at the Cerritos avenue school, with the president, Mrs. Glassburn, in the chair. Mr. Harwood, the new principal, made a good talk on his own work and the work of the kindergarten and the playground. Mrs. A. A. Barton, president of the Federation of Glendale Parent-Teacher Associations, was present and brought greetings from that organization. Music was furnished by the school phonograph and the ladies also enjoyed the phonograph record of Pershing's message to the American people. Following the program, tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. Fuelscher entertained Saturday evening in honor of her husband's birthday with a card party at which Five Hundred was played. Refreshments were served at eleven p. m., the table being centered with a handsome birthday cake, and decorated in a red, white and blue color scheme. The guest list included Messrs. and Mesdames F. Chase, J. Evans, Miss Mabel Evans, Mr. and Mrs. W. Crouse and daughter Thelma, Mr. and Mrs. W. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. G. Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Fuelscher and daughters Annie and Alice. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Evans.

A BUSY CLUB LEADER

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, as president of the District Federation of Women's clubs, has a long calendar of engagements which she is regarding with some dismay because she is trying to recuperate from an attack which behaves very much like Spanish influenza. She thinks, however, she has the best of it now and is planning to fill all the appointments if possible. The list runs something like this for a series of luncheons and opening meetings at which Mrs. Jones will be guest of honor and chief speaker:

Monday, Oct. 7—Covina Woman's Club, address on war service in club work.

Wednesday, Oct. 9—Van Nuys Woman's Club, address on adjustment of clubs to war conditions.

Friday, Oct. 11—Echo Park Mothers' Club.

Monday, Oct. 14—Sierra Madre Woman's Club.

Tuesday, October 15, will preside at President's Council at the Alexandria Hotel, Los Angeles, which will be held in the Rose Parlor with members of the Wawan Club as hostesses, and a luncheon served for the Executive Board in the dining room of the hotel at 12:30, at which Mrs. Cowles and Mrs. Cable will be present as guests of honor, also Miss Jessica Lawrence, president of the Hollywood Woman's Club, which is to entertain the Federation next spring.

Thursday, October 24th—Educational Council at the Broadway Department Store.

Tuesday, October 29th—guest of honor and speaker at the Pasadena Shakespeare Club.

Last Tuesday she was the guest of honor at the opening of the club year at the Whittier Woman's Club, which has a very pretty club house that it rents for Sunday services. As a conservation measure the club has voted to change its meeting day from Thursday to Monday that it may use the chairs as left from Sunday and then clear the auditorium for use the balance of the week for Red Cross work. Mrs. Jones had invitations for the same day from Santa Monica and San Gabriel clubs, which she had to decline because she could not be in three places at once.

She says this is one of the few districts in which the club organizations have not suffered by reason of war work, the war activities having served to strengthen the club affiliations, and she is very anxious that this happy condition should continue. Besides her club duties, Mrs. Jones is a member of the California State Committee for the United War Work Campaign, and has just received a letter from the eastern national headquarters urging her to push the campaign on account of her local leadership, and declaring that they "are depending upon the co-operation of the splendid western women and are very much delighted with the way in which the work has been organized in California."

A PIVOTAL POINT

The Word of God a great many pictures have been drawn pointing to that future.

He then read eight verses from the 35th chapter of Isaiah in which the prophecy is made that the desert shall blossom and springs of water shall break forth, and the eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf unstopped, and the lame man shall leap as a hart upon the mountains, which to him is a promise of the bright future dawning for that wonderful land.

He referred to the misunderstanding of the Bible in our Occidental countries which has made necessary many explanations and commentaries, because we do not know the country in which it sprung and forget that ours is an eastern religion coming from the little land of Palestine, which is standing at a pivotal point where three great continents converge, Europe, Asia and Africa. Though it covers but 150 miles from north to south and fifty miles from east to west, it is a country from which as a center it is possible to influence more people in this world than any other one central spot on this earth's surface, and this Mr. Johnson considers very significant in the light of present events.

The Holy Land, he pointed out, is a holy land in a much larger sense than we have been wont to regard it because it is the birthplace of three great religions, the Jewish, the Christian and the Mohammedan, and it belongs first of all to the Jew. The deepest wish in the heart of every orthodox Jew, he said, is, when he gets to be an old man to go to Palestine and be buried with his face pointing toward Jerusalem.

Mr. Johnson spoke of Commissioners Strauss and Morgenthau sent by President Wilson several years ago to spy out the land and report to him whether it would be practicable to re-establish the Jews as a nation in Palestine should it be wrested from the dominion of the Turk.

"The Jew," said he, "is getting homesick, and there is but one cure for homesickness, to go home. The Jew will go home. Not all the Jewish people, but a remnant. Palestine can take care of from one to three million souls, and they are having a heavier rainfall now than they have had for centuries. We see a new day dawning for Jerusalem. I would rather be living now in these epoch-making times than in any hour the clock of the world has ever struck."

The slides included many pictures of Jerusalem, its temples and mosques, including the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, and the narrative described its taking without a desecrating shell by General Allenby, who bared his head and said as he entered the city gate with his official staff, "Only the Lord Jesus should enter here as a conqueror." There were also views of the places on which the eyes of the world are centering at the present moment in the Macedonian campaign Carmel, Nazareth, where the great Turkish army of 25,000 men was surrounded, and where it surrendered, Damascus and Aleppo, the gateway to Constantinople.

The last picture shown was of Thorwaldsen's beautiful statue of the Christ, of which the story is told that a fellow artist who had longed to see it and who on beholding it felt a sense of disappointment, which was discovered by a boy who lingered near and watched his face, was told by the boy, "You can not get the full effect from where you are standing. To see the full beauty of the face you must kneel at the feet of the statue and look up." He found it was so "and that must be the viewpoint of every soul who would see Jesus as he is," declared the preacher.

WAR DOES NOT AFFECT THE WEATHER ANYWHERE

"There is nothing in it," say the United States Weather Bureau to repeated inquiries as to whether the war affects rainfall or any other weather conditions. There is a popular fallacy that conceptions, explosions, and the liberation of gases in the European conflicts is having an effect on the weather, not only over the battlefields, but elsewhere on the globe; but it is only a fallacy, say the weather specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, even though it has existed almost since the beginning of historic times. Before gunpowder was used, the ancients had an idea that battles produced rainfall, which was caused by the clash of swords and the sweat of the fighters.

Later, the same theory was transferred to the noise produced by musketry and artillery; later still, to dust particles and smoke from burning powder, upon which the moisture in the air was supposed to be condensed and to fall as rain, and now to the gases freed by explosions and liberated in the new chemical warfare.

These theories are not combated merely by other theories, but by actual observations made officially by several of the belligerent governments, and the net result of these careful observations is to refute the idea of any effect of war on weather.

While the notion of this effect has been repeatedly exposed in scientific journals, the general press has from time to time printed articles in which the idea of a connection between battle and rainfall has been brought forward. For this reason the weather officials feel that the following facts may be timely and interesting.

The real cause of rainfall is the cooling of the air by the vertical rising of heated air currents, and the incoming of cooler currents to take their places. All weather conditions depend ultimately for their origin on the heating and cooling of the atmosphere. All the powder that could be reasonably expended in any battle, even by millions of men engaged, would not be enough to produce any appreciable change in temperature throughout any considerable section of the atmosphere over the battle area.

Some have thought that the jarring effect of concussions joggles to gether the moisture particles in the air, just as a sharp tap on a window pane will start a descent of larger drops from many small ones made by a mist or drizzle. A sharp downpour of rain following immediately after a heavy crash of thunder is supposed to be an example of the same cause and effect. This theory was partly back of the "rain-making" attempts formerly tried in Kansas, Texas, and elsewhere to break droughts by a "bombardment of the skies."

The weather specialists point out that in all such cases, even when rain has followed such bombardments, the moisture was there and was due to fall anyhow without man's intervention and that in the few cases where rain has fallen it has been a mere coincidence, the rain being due to natural causes, and the drought was broken because it was time that it would have been broken in the natural course of events. In short, moisture would fall when it was present; if it were not present, all the concussions that could be devised by man could not make rain.

Actual observations by French, British and American observers have failed to establish any relationship between storming the enemy and storms from the skies. Careful studies show that rainfall and battles do not coincide enough to give the basis for a theory of cause and effect. The great battles in France in the spring of 1917 failed to interrupt the long spell of fair weather that accompanied them. Furthermore, an examination recently made of the records of local distribution of rainfall over England during the first 22 months of the war made by the British meteorological office resulted in strengthening the evidence against the theory.

port the civil government, still he also urges us not to let our Christian missionary work lag. As Christian men and women, we have a dual responsibility that which we owe to God and that which we owe to civil government, which is the minister of God. Civil government should find its most ardent supporters and its most loyal citizens inside the church of Jesus Christ.

"In Romans 13, the apostle exhorts us: 'Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God; the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God; and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.' That scripture is dual in its application, for they receive damnation of the government and damnation of God, who instituted the civil government for their welfare.

"We read further: 'For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? Do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same; for he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain; for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil. Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake.

"For this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing. Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor."

Continuing, Mr. Christian said in part:

"I am glad this morning that I am a citizen of the United States. My father and mother were born in the old country. My father was shot by a German in the war of 1864, and my parents got out of that country as quickly as they could after the war was over. I rejoice that you and I are citizens of the greatest government under heaven today, and as a citizen of that country I shall give every ounce of my strength and every support of my life, so far as other duties will permit, for the support of the principles for which it stands.

"Our spiritual citizenship is in heaven, but as Christians on the earth we have a civil citizenship here. In the name of that civil citizenship we hold our property and have police protection and fire protection. In the name of civil authority you and I enjoy life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness. I think, as I said before, that government on earth ought to receive its greatest support from its Christian citizenship. There should be no more loyal people in the world than we.

"Sometimes a Christian is brought into great perplexity, into straitened circumstances. Sometimes laws are passed that seriously enter into the realms of his rights in life, liberty and happiness. What, then, are his prerogatives? In such an hour as that, every man has the right of an appeal to those who govern.

"Take, for instance, the case of Daniel. Daniel was a wise man, but he did not yield to all the follies of all the wise men of Babylon. He did not have anything to do with the departed spirits, or with the stars or with the seasons, in getting his wisdom. The king had a dream. He called in the wise men and said, 'I want you to tell me my dream, and then tell me what it means.' The wise men said, 'That is an unheard-of thing. Nobody can do that.' But the king insisted that they tell both the dream and the interpretation. He reasoned that if they could tell him its meaning, they could also tell the dream itself. Then he put on the thumb screws, so to speak. He said, 'If you will not tell me, you shall all be killed.'

"After the decree had been issued, the officers sought Daniel and his companions to kill them. Daniel questioned why the decree was so hasty. Neither he nor his Hebrew companions had been given a chance in the matter. Then Arioch, the captain of the guard, told Daniel. Arioch had no alternative but to kill all the wise men at once. But Daniel went in before the king and desired that he would give him time. This was no more nor less than an appeal.

"Daniel said to the king, 'This command has gone forth hastily, and I have had no time.' The king said, 'That is right; you have a right to appeal until you have time to show that you should not come under that sentence.' Then Daniel and his companions prayed to God, and God flashed that dream upon Daniel's mind, so that he saw it clearly, and the king's decree was changed and Daniel and his companions saved. It is a citizen's right to appeal.

"Put them in mind," we read in Titus 3:1, 'to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work.' In this great crisis in which we find ourselves, what are some of the good works in which you and I should be ready to participate? First, I think we should be ready to give every assistance to the Red Cross. When I hear the invitation to our women folk to help sew at the Red Cross rooms, I say I think every one who is physically able, and who can get the time from home duties ought to assist in this good work.

"That noble organization stands today without a peer in the world, and challenges unselfish, benevolent effort on the part of mankind for the good of our fellow men. When the Red Cross workers need help, you and I as Christian men and women ought to play the part of the Good Samaritan and give them a lift, and not be like the Levite, who passed by on the other side. When I give my money to the Red Cross work I feel that I can lift my heart to God and say, 'Lord, bless this money given in Thy name, to the helping of some bleeding heart.'

"There is a call today for men and women to go to the battlefield to bind up the bleeding limbs and other parts of men's bodies that have been shattered by the cruel implements of warfare, and at the call an army of men and women ought to respond. I never can raise my voice in counsel against a young man or young woman, or a middle-aged man or middle-aged woman offering himself or herself for service, to help men who are bleeding and dying. My blessing goes with those who give their lives in helping others.

"Here is the great expense which comes to our government in this crisis. It is selling Liberty Bonds. I believe we ought, as far as in our power lies, to stand by our government in this matter. It gives me cheer to meet a brother wearing a button showing that he has done what he could in purchasing bonds, for never a nation went into a warfare with greater grave and nobler purposes than this country when it was dragged into the warfare of the present day. There is no desire on its part to add territory. There is no desire to crush any man. There is no desire to gain riches, or wealth or prestige among the nations. There is only one supreme desire, and that is to take from under the power of the iron hand those struggling nations which are dying and can not relieve themselves. I say with all frankness that of all the entering into wars which I have ever read about, the entrance of the United States into this great struggle was justified above every other.

"I believe the turning point toward victory in this great struggle came when our president, speaking for 98,000,000 men and women, announced the principles which compelled us to go into this war, and repeated them over and over again, enunciated them on every occasion which presented itself. From that day the tide of battle turned. God is working this thing out. You need not take my word; you can go back over the days and weeks and months of the past. From the day the principles were enunciated by the Allied governments that were to govern them in the future conduct of the war, and in the settlement at the close of the war, from that day and onward the tables have turned, and we have been going forward to victory. I believe it is God whose hand yet rules among the nations of earth.

"So I appeal to you, brethren and sisters and friends, let us stand by God in the giving of the Gospel to all the world, and let us stand by God's agency, our own country, in this hour of struggle which has come to her, and as we do it in all humility, let us ask God to close every wrong avenue and open every right one that peace may come to the nations, and that the Gospel of Jesus Christ may go speedily to the nations of the world.

"I think it does a man good to give for the promulgation of the Gospel of God until he feels it, and I believe it does a man good to give for the government in such a crisis as this until he feels it. In the Red Cross drive not long ago, President Wilson said:

"But when you give, give something of your heart, something of your soul, something of yourself that goes with the gift, particularly when it is given in such form that it never can come back by way of direct benefit to yourself. You know there is the old cynical definition of gratitude as 'the lively expectation of favors to come.' Well, there is no expectation of favors to come in this kind of giving. These things are bestowed in order that the world may be a fitter place to live in, that men may be succored; that homes may be restored; that suffering may be relieved; that the face of the earth may have the blight of destruction taken away from it, and that wherever force goes, there shall go mercy and helpfulness.

"And when you give, give absolutely all that you can spare, and don't consider yourself liberal in the giving. If you give with self adulation, you are not giving at all; you are giving to your own vanity, but if you give until it hurts, then your heart blood goes into it.

"And think what we have here. We call it the American Red Cross, but it is merely a branch of a great international organization, which is not only recognized by the statutes of each of the civilized governments of the world, but is the recognized and accepted instrumentality of mercy and succor. And one of the deepest stains that rests upon the reputation of the German army is that they have not respected the Red Cross.

"That goes to the root of the matter. They have not respected the instrumentality they themselves participated in setting up as the thing which no man was to touch because it was the expression of common humanity. We are members, by being members of the American Red Cross, of a great fraternity and comradeship, which extends all over the world, and this cross which these ladies bore today is an emblem of Christianity itself.

"Today our relatives are on the battle front. Some of them are very close of kin to us. We don't know whether they are among the dead, the dying or the living. We ought to give something of the heart to help them. I haven't bought my Fourth Liberty Bond yet, but I am going to get it. I may have to pay for it by the month. If the government needs the cash which I will pay for that bond, it can have it. If it needs the bond itself, it can have that, too—it can have it all. That is the least that I can do.

"When President Wilson says that one of the deepest stains resting upon the reputation of the German army is their failure to respect the Red Cross, he tells the truth. Nothing so stirs our hearts with indignation as that when the Red Cross workers are out on the battlefield, succoring foe and friend alike, that then, I say, the enemy should strike at them in a sinister effort to obliterate their mercy.

"That work of relief is the very essence of Christianity. It is Christian help work; Christian service. So, my friends, in these hours of stress, while you and I can not help but be optimistic, and can not question the outcome, and while we seem sometimes to be able to measure the distance to victory, yet we must not allow our optimism to get the better of our judgment, for there is still a struggle. In this hour of struggle and test let us stand loyally behind those in authority, who bear heavy responsibilities, and in the hour of trial let us pray for these men that God, when He sees it possible, will put an end to this struggle, and that the principles of equity, liberty and equal rights for smaller and weaker nations, as well as for the greater, shall become a part of the polity of nations. Recognition of civil government is part of the religion of Jesus Christ, who never said a word against civil government, but always stood ready to uphold its hands, and to give honor and respect to those in authority."

TUJUNGA

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Hall and baby left on Friday for Berkeley, where they will spend the winter.

Chief Boatswain James Leckie, U. S. N., retired, who has lived in Tujunga for nearly a year, passed away at his home on Pine street last Saturday. He had been in service for twenty-seven years until, broken down in health, he was put on the retired list. Services were held at Forest Lawn Memorial Park on Tuesday. The Glendale Lodge of Elks had charge of the ceremonies. The Naval Reserves Training Station and Submarine Base were represented by 100 sailors, commissioned officers and the Submarine Base Band. Some of these men had known Mr. Leckie when he was assistant commandant at Mare Island some years ago. A firing squad of bluejackets volleyed the last tribute, and the bugler sounded "Taps" as the last requiem for their comrade. A wife and six children survive him, who have their home in Tujunga, where he spent the last year of his life.

Mrs. D. E. Dean attended a meeting of the sugar dispensers of Los Angeles county at 719 South Hill street. The county administrator, Mrs. E. M. Mumford, had charge of the meeting, and short talks from Mrs. Burdette and Mrs. Sartori of the Woman's Defense League occupied the morning session, bringing messages from the state meeting for the coming months. The afternoon was devoted to reports from different parts of the county, by the local sugar dispensers. Some of it was very amusing, while much of it showed that many women do not as yet grasp the vital necessity of conservation, especially in the matter of sugar. The extra amount of sugar for canning purposes during September is borrowed from the supply to be granted to us in the next months. Do you understand what this means? If not, get busy thinking. Don't be selfish and get plenty for yourself and let your neighbor do without. What, you don't like dried fruits, or those put up with but little sugar. Can't you do this little bit to help the boys over there who are giving their lives to make you safe? Many of us call ourselves Christians and yet know that in not giving fully and freely until it hurts, we are not His disciples. It will be a very hard winter for many of us. Let us begin now to conserve our food and teach the children to do the same. "A clean plate and no waste" should be our slogan. Do you know there is not one child under four years of age in Poland today? Why? They have starved to death. What are you going to do about it? That's just the question. The answer you must make for yourself. Questions of every kind were asked of Mrs. Mumford, for perplexities had arisen on every side, but were soon cleared away and the dispensers felt the meeting was very helpful and instructive. Cards are to be placed in the homes of every one in the county, asking their help this winter to carry out the plans of the Council of Defense to save in foods and by doing for others forget our own selfishness and inconvenience. The next meeting will be held at the same place on the second Tuesday of November.

Mr. McGroarty took Miss Gilbert and Mrs. Fairfield to Pasadena to return work for the Red Cross and bring out new work to be finished. They also went to Los Angeles to take in finished work for the Belgian Relief.

Mrs. Richardson has moved from the home of Mr. Miles on Stephens Way to the place owned by Mr. Haigh on San Ysidro.

There is plenty of yarn on hand now for sweaters, helmets and socks. It will soon be cold weather and the boys will need the articles very much. Let those who have work out, finish and return it as soon as possible.

Mrs. Horton of San Francisco, a sister of Mrs. Leckie, was in attendance at the funeral of Mr. Leckie. On account of not being able to locate the brothers until too late, they were unable to come.

A very pleasant and interesting entertainment took place at Bolton Hall last Thursday evening in a reception extended to our new teachers of the grammar school for the coming school year. Mrs. Strain, principal, and Miss Samuels came to us well qualified for the place, and they were made to feel that every parent and friend of the scholars were with them heart and soul in their new field of work. The affair was very informal, each one vying with the other in giving them the hand of welcome, accompanied with a hearty wish for their success and welfare. Some two hundred friends were present. After the simple but bounteous supper which was served by all the ladies, Mr. Weiman, president of the school board, called the assembly to order. In a few well-chosen remarks he called upon our beloved poet, writer and townsman, John McGroarty, to respond to the subject, "Our Teachers." His talk, from the subject of our first little "red school house" down to the present time, was most patriotic and inspiring, ending with a most kindly and hearty welcome, as only "our John" can extend. Our postmaster, Mr. Ashby, responded to the "First Day of School" in a happy and patriotic manner, bringing out the funny as well as the serious side of it. The hall and tables, under the supervision of Mrs. Fischer, were most beautifully planned and decorated, adding greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. At the close of the evening, under the leadership of Mrs. Woodruff, several patriotic and old-time songs were sung by all, leaving the spirit and sentiment of "Auld Lang Syne" hovering in every heart. It is good indeed for friends and brethren to dwell together in unity.

LA CRESCENTA

Mrs. E. W. Nettleton entertained Mrs. Ola Sutton, Mrs. Harry Jarmer and Mrs. T. C. Stevens, all of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Haines had Capt. and Mrs. Morton as guests over Sunday.

Lawrence, Dorothy and Archie Potter, who have been out of school owing to the whooping cough, have returned this week.

The La Crescenta Woman's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Mary Thompson on Wednesday, October 9, at 2 p. m. promptly. Quarterly dues should be paid at this meeting.

Mrs. A. Bernhardt has returned from a visit up north and will occupy one of her cottages for the winter.

The committee for the Fourth Liberty Bond drive has not completed its returns but the reports are very good. Crescenda will go way over its quota. L. A. Potter and Fred Anderson are one team and H. S. Bissell and T. P. Jones the other, and D. E. Wetherbee for the church members.

Miss Mollie Brown has left for her school in Arizona.

U. C. Twinmen has built a beautiful home on Rosemont which is nearing completion.

The Red Cross crasses on Tuesday and Thursday need more helpers. There is work in plenty and material on hand, but willing hands are too few. Come out; give one day a week to our boys. They are giving all, possibly their lives, that you may live in peace and quiet. Can you do less than one day a week? Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Ayres will be glad to see you. 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the school-house.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Thomas have returned from an extended trip up north, Carmel by the Sea, San Francisco and Sacramento.

Miss Fordham and sister, who have been in La Crescenta some months, are leaving for Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. Cobb are stopping in Los Angeles for the week.

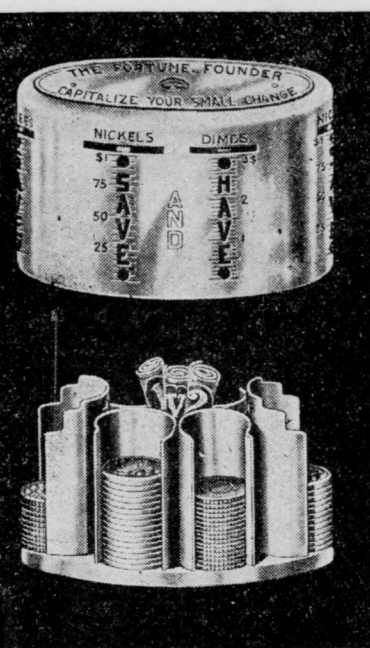

H. A. Hamlin, who has been ill with the grippe for a few days, is convalescing.

This is the beginning of a new month, so don't forget your Thrift Stamps. Those seemingly little quarters do a heap of good.

Nearly every one who has a soldier "over there" had letters this last week. Three million pieces of mail were handled in New York City for distribution all over the United States. Among those of our community who received letters are Phil Begue, Mr. Cookson, A. H. Schultz, Mrs. Maranville and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. M. Lewenstine had her son George home for a visit on Thursday.

LA CANADA.

Mr. Sergeant is building an addition to his tenant house just east of the Williams place on the old Deeder place.

Mr. and Mrs. Selleck have gone by auto to Imperial Valley. Mr. Selleck to look after the ranch he recently bought there, and Mrs. Selleck for a rest and change. She says it is the only way she can get free for a while of the rush of her life in La Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Williams are rejoicing in the fact that a splendid crop of walnuts is about ready to be harvested in the El Monte District, where they have a grove. The price of No. 1 nuts this year is 28c a pound and there are no seconds as there were last year, nothing but No. ones and culls, and there is also a good market for culls.

O. L. Green and son Leigh are at work at Sunland in the cannery, which is having hard work to get help enough.

Mrs. Potts of Verdugo boulevard, whose husband carries on an extensive business in Los Angeles, is the wonder and admiration of her neighbors because she not only performs her domestic duties but goes to Los Angeles daily and helps her husband in his office all the forenoon, returning on the 2 o'clock stage. Mr. Potts' father is now living with them.

Mrs. Vandegrift has returned from Santa Barbara where she has been taking the rest cure. Her friends think she has made considerable improvement.

J. P. Huntington called upon La Canada friends this week. He is employed in the ship yards at San Pedro and his wife, who is still ill, is with her sister in Pasadena.

The Thursday Club will hold its first meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Schieffelin on Palm drive next Thursday. The program will be musical.

Dr. Scott and his brother came up from Pacific Grove Wednesday and have been packing up preparatory to giving up their home here. The doctor served the Congregational Church until his health broke down and he was forced to go to a sanatorium, much to the regret of the many friends he made in La Canada. He is a man of great ability and charm and his wife is considered equally wonderful. Before her marriage to the doctor she was the head of a girls' mission school in Japan. The doctor's daughter, also a talented woman, is a medical missionary.

a former resident here, whose husband died about four years ago leaving her penniless and with four little girls to support, will be glad to learn that she is getting the best of conditions financially. She has opened a hand laundry in her home on West Eighteenth street and is doing nicely. She finds the work advantageous, as it enables her to stay at home with her children. She is buying her home on installments and any work her friends can send her will be appreciated.

The La Canada Thursday Club will hold its first meeting of the new season at the home of Mrs. Jay Schieffelin on Palm avenue on Thursday, October 10th, at 2:30 p. m. The response to the roll call will be current events.

I want to thank all the ladies who helped me out on the refugee garments, as one who has never undertaken such a task can hardly realize the time and labor it takes to cut and count all those twenty-three dozen garments and to clear the room and make ready to commence them, as I averaged three days each week from 8:30 to 6:30 from July first till August sixteenth without missing a single time. And I especially want to thank the ladies who so kindly helped and stayed by me until the work was completed. I have turned the work room over to the secretary, wishing her great success.

As ever yours,
MRS. F. S. LEA.
